(Jesus speaking:)

Hi, by the way. Great to see you here on the threshold of the new hereafter. Buckle up your belt and get ready. I look in My rear view mirror from the driver's seat. I smile. I'm glad to have you on board. Ride is starting up and to new horizons is where we are going.

I reach My hand back and give yours a squeeze. I wink, and release the throttle or gear stick. The break is released and we begin to move. Now is the time for tanking up. I love each of My brides and will give them what they need for the days and years to come.

Be wise and use your energies in full-throttle work for Me. When Word is your work, and vice-a-versa, it's easy then to "fit Me into your schedule."

I look into the mirror to see your eyes as the vehicle begins to move. I catch that slight apprehension, but the look in My eyes passes on the thrill and excitement and reassurance that is in My eyes. The look in My eyes helps you through the initial moves. You know the train is in motion and it's not going to stop until destination.

Maybe during some of the lulls I allow there to be along the way, I can put it in gear and come and snuggle in the back seat with you.

Here we go!
