(Jesus speaking:) You were faint for the way is long, but just keep taking in the new wine, the life blood of the Elixirs of Heaven. This is not only your calling, but duty, and baked into it is your need for it. You are hardwired to take in the new and to embrace only that which will stir you to life.

It's your duty and your means of survival. Take in and you will live.

Down the walls will fall, though it be the last thing you do. I give you strength to push the walls of falsity (false city) down with the fire of your mouth through the strength I give your fingers to fight.

On your instrument of ten strings will I play and pour forth. And when I do, so many hear. For it is My Word, and it's not just for a few ones here and there to read and be encouraged. These words go out. You can be the channel for Me to speak, to make it be in human, readable, say-able form. And then the "line is taken throughout all the world" to people in all nations and kingdoms, in realms seen and not seen. You are a conduit and I take it from there. Just like My angels do My bidding, so do you, and My spirit takes your little efforts and I do as I please with My own.

As soon as you think you own these words and try to put a cap on them, that is when they go down the drain and are lost. But if you keep being like a flowing river and let Me get full credit or blame or whatever comes as a result of these words, then I can keep using you and the words keep bearing fruit in lands and realms that you know not.
