

12-Jan-2021_ I'm shielding you

(Jesus speaking:) I'm holding you right now. You can't see Me, but I'm shielding you from oh so many painful swords that keep trying to get through to your heart. Because if you can get "off your horse" even for a little bit, then the enemy has a chance of waylaying you for a whole lot longer. You are to ride right through enemy's fire and vicious attacks.

You are an enemy to the troupes of satan, because no matter what you do, you want it to always be glorifying Me. And this type of attitude is absolutely detrimental to the evil one's shenanigans.

You feel the heat somewhat, and the thoughts are nearly pushing through your line of defence, but they haven't reached your heart, as you keep looking into My eyes. The look in them has a way of both pressing you onward, and pressing you closer to Me.

Now we're going to take a bend in the road for a bit, just so you can see new scenery. We're through some of the thickest of the enemy's hordes, for that part of the way at least. We'll get off the horse and be able to have a breather for a bit.

I look in your eyes as we stand beside our faithful steed, and say,

"I love you. That's why I married you."

You are so glad at this moment that you stuck it out with Me. You are so glad to have made Me happy.

Just a bit more left to go. Steep hills and windy passes to navigate over. But I'm the one leading the way. It will be a bumpy go for awhile, but that's sure better than standing still in the baking heat and biting wind, and pelting rain. Moving forward to our haven always feels better than standing around doing nothing much, thinking how lost you feel.

I'm the best ride you can catch, because I'll make sure you get there safe and sound.
