

13-Dec-2021_the gift of a broken heart

(Jesus speaking:) Darling let Me break your heart, for the good of My family, My nation.

Will you give it to Me, darling? Give Me your heart and let Me mold it and fashion it in to the tabernacle that it must be. Broken hearts are most pleasing.

(Spirit helper speaking:) It's not nearly enough that you love our Saviour Jesus Christ, for to love is to give. And what more can you give than a broken and contrite heart. It's a gift that He cannot despise.

(Jesus speaking:) Hold it right there. Now who said I am taking away from you? Does not My Word say that I give good things? Do I not wish to fill you time and again, rewarding you above all that you could ask or think, according to My power?

I give freely to you every day, in this way and that way. I live to give. It's just that I want to give the best, and in order to do it I have to clear away that which is not, but it's all about giving, both now and in the distant days to come.

Oh, I can see you now in My mind's eye, the beautiful way you are, and I will do all it takes to reach that goal of simplicity, where you are simply focused on Me, My needs, My wishes, My desires, and nothing else really matters to you. It's a road of forsaking indeed, to reach that point. But those who wish to do My bidding and long to know Me yet more deeply, give up all that it takes to reach that type of relationship with their Lord and Creator.

How beautiful, how amazing it will be, when you and I are truly one in every sense of the word.

Beloved, and it won't be too long now. Let Me do with you as I will, and great will be our joy in the paradise above.
