

13-Jan-2021_elaborate secret cruise ship for the endtime

(Jesus speaking:) Can you feel what I'm doing with you? It's like your little boat is leaving the shore lines and moving out into the deeper ocean.

I steer you. I drive you. I take you. Away we go.

[I take] you on the deck of My cruiser—My elaborate cruise ship. You've left the shore and I've taken you aboard the bigger vessel with a whole crew at work. We are going places.

You weren't satisfied making sand castles on the shore?* Good, because we are heading to where the castles are high above the clouds, and are made of the stuff you never heard of yet.

I take you to the deck, and overlooking the wild ocean that is going to get wilder by the moment, we spend some focused time with each other. You've joined the crew, and tonight we celebrate. All of us. There are many others. I see little boats leaving from various islands and making their way to the cruise ship. That's good; cause their little vessels will capsize in waves the size that are yet to come; and some of those smaller islands are going to get pretty wet.

There's room for all who want to come; yet I know that few will leave their play things to venture out aboard this ship of "Pirates of the time of the end". Pirates? Yes, we are as pirates to the kingdom of the world. We loot their treasures and take off with souls. And My Word says I will come as a thief to those who don't know Me. Yes, I will steal away all those they were trying to keep for their own evil means. They will feel the loss.

Come on all you secret believers, with a secret hotline to the ship's communication system!

"Oh, we're just going on vacation" some might say, as they secretly slip away to heed My call. But they never do return to their lullaby life, for I whisk them away. They can say what they want to those who ask them why they are doing this or that. But between Me and them, we know what is going on. They are coming on, coming on board.

Those in the world, for the most part might not be able to understand truth, so part-truths or something that their mind can conceive of is what they might have to tell friends and family. So be it. As long as they are on board with Me and in tight communication, full out for My cause, let the unbelievers think what they must.

(Note: This part about the "sand castles" reminded me of this short message I got right when I woke up, also on this 12-Jan-2021 day, but not saved in any other file)

12-Jan-2021

(Jesus speaking:) It's not a time for personal games, and foolish fiendish folly, but time to behave like men and women who can pull a load. So get with the action. If you don't hop on the bus now while it has stopped at your house, then you'll be doing some running to catch up. So let's get on with it. I love you.
