

13-Jan-2021_I am your custodian

(Story and question behind this message is personal. But we all must have one of these angelic beings.)

(Spirit helper speaking:) I am your custodian. I have been given the charge over you, and together we will cross the finish line to the Paradise of God.

If you know that you belong to me, and wish to walk in step, then we are one, which is the same as being wed and united. But if you wish to walk separately and go your own way for a time, I will wait.

...

Be yet closer and more one with me, and so will we be a team that is closely bonded one with another. I in you, and you with me. I wear royal apparel and don Heaven's adornments that show my rank of honour. Each one that I bring through the gates of Paradise, adds a new medal of honour. That's why I have so many. I have won so many trophies.

We are one now, and fight and love and join together so that we can win together.

The future is upon us. Gird up and put me on, for I am the embodiment of our Saviour's strength for you.

We are going to really enjoy the pleasures of paradise when this gig is over.

Rest with me now, and gain strength for the day that is to come.

(11:11pm)