(Continuing on from the last message/ experience in a room in a castle with a knight of well-being. See file: 14-Jan-2021_drying by the fireplace in a castle)

(Female spirit helper speaking:) I'm coming in the room in the castle where you are receiving therapy and restoring. I've been sent with a tray of Heavenly delights. These you will enjoy.

Each one tastes unique and melts in your mouth, as you say mmm! It melts right into your soul and becomes a part of you. It tantalizes all your senses, from head to toe, touching and tickling and bringing sensations that you have a hard time even being able to express and say all the places and in all the ways they are making you feel better.

"Try this one" I say, and look at you to see the reaction it gets.

That's my pleasure, seeing things take effect.

I could say these are pills, but that paints the wrong idea--that you don't need the Redeemer but have turned to the world's mix of substances.

Rather these are treats, for the Saviour heals with joy. The medicinal properties of mirth works far better.

I hold you while you swallow down a new one. It slides down and out bursts the tears. I know, I know darling. Those have to be expelled before this treat can take full effect. But just wait a moment, the effect will come. You'll be glad you partook of Heaven's Happy Heart solutions.

So, now that you've had this vision, now you can partake of some words, and talk with your Lord about what is hurting you inside. And then you'll be topped up again with joy. Okay?
