(Spirit Helper speaking:) You think you are fighting to win when you are choosing to think that thought and not the other; when don't make that negative comment which would cost you in time and expenditure of emotions and interactions, and dealing with the fallout. You think you are wielding the weapon of prayer when you try to remember, quite frequently to turn your thoughts upward.

But there is more you can do.

You can be wielding the weapon of the Word more to help shine a light on just how to fight with all the other needed weapons. If you had quotes that you pulled and selected, short "punchy" potent and to-the-point ones, then you could be reviewing them during the day and learning to be a far-better, more on target, proficient fighter. Your efforts would hit on target more often and more damage would be done.

Make this "Keys to victory booklet". It's like the key to the armoury of God. It aids you and tools you and gives you access to the most powerful stuff. It stocks and reloads your musket and keeps your powder dry. It puts glasses on you so you can see better; it binds up the hurts quickly so no infection sets in, and healing can come more swiftly.

It's the other half of the ingredient to cause a powerful reaction. This info, plus you willing to do what it says, mixes for one explosion after the next. Never underestimate the power of the Words of God in tiny capsules, in little books.
