(Angelic message:) Honey, we're just going to have to get deeper, because that is where the treasures are kept. Mining is what we do best, "Treasures in darkness". In dark times you mine for treasures.

Let's go.

I have a few to share with you right now.

Here's a crystal glass of clear liquid, yet a few things are inside it. They look like tiny blue gems they sit inside the cup.

"Drink up" I say, and with a brave smile you gulp it down, those hard bits were a bit hard to swallow. Down it goes and you are then lit up, you are enlightened. Things you didn't fully understand or didn't understand at all, now are starting to be made clear and are making sense.

Keep mining—there's more.

[Later on:]

Hi darling. Take in another. I'll pop it in your mouth and you swallow it. These will help you to see more clearly what is wrong and what is right—not only your perceived sense of rightness that is based on your experience and learning. But it's a new era with some new rules, mostly just do as the Master says, and do so right away. That is about the best "right" these days, quick and fast obedience to the King, or the river sweeps on past and you didn't keep up with the spear head troupes that carry on whether you are on God's fast track team or "coming along, but I need more time to get used to the taste of the wine first, then I'm sure I'll be along—in my time."

When you seek in prayer, ask for the jewels [to be] passed on, and you'll get them in prophecy.
