

23-FEB-2021_I breathe into your heart

(Jesus speaking:) Baby I need you. I dream of you. I ache for you, much in the way you do—for indeed all your feelings are encased in My heart, for you are in Me. Let's just make it through this next part of the journey, and then we can take our fill of love.

It's good that you need to keep coming back to Me to hear Me speaking. This gives you oxygen, like those climbing high mountains need. It's not always the cool words or phrasing, word pictures or even Heavenly insight that keeps you going on and on, but more than anything it's what I can breathe into your heart while you are taking time to listen that helps you keep on and on. It's the invisible things of the Spirit of God that buoys you up.
