

23-Jan-2022_ light on the path

(Lucerne:) I have come indeed to help you in this time when darkness truly is covering the world more than ever. Take my hand as I hold God's ball of light and on we'll go. No, things won't always be clear and you won't always be able to see what colour things are in the shadows around you, but the light will show you clearly the path you are to take. You won't be able to always know who is right and what is right about everything in the world around you, and you won't accurately judge right and wrong according to your view, but all you really need to know is the path that you are to be on. So hold my hand and I will shine God's light on the path and He will speak in your heart saying this is the way, walk you in it.
