(Spirit helper speaking:) Devina the uninspired queen (daurquen/dark) goes around trying to deactivate the children of God; hindering them from achieving their purpose. But there is something much stronger that you can use against her pernicious ways and deactivation tactics—faith. For if you have faith, Jesus said to His disciples, even if it's a grain of faith, you can move whatever obstacles stands in your way.

Faith to do the impossible comes from God, and it's transmitted to you primarily through His Word. Then it's built up by doing His Word and seeing the fruit, that it works.

Hearing—believing—doing the Word of God keeps you so active and activated that this evil dark (daurque) entity has no success over you. With faith in God's all-powerful ability it's like you sprout wings and up and over you go, far away from the sticky slime ball obstacle that was trying to roll over you, gather you into it and stop you from ever moving forward.

You can't "rise above" without wings; wings spring from the faith in your heart, then up you go, flying high above, and making great progress on life's path way.

Note: when baby's bowels are troubling and stopping up, or just hurting as he sleeps, this stops my work on the words. I started praying against this one that is causing it. This was a problem with my other boys for years. A Christmas gift, a revelation who is fighting me, and I don't need to get all into the physical cause and constantly wonder what diet move I did wrong, or letting it overcome my focus like I needed to do with the others. Now it's the time to just rebuke it.*
