

26-Jan-2021_love that will fill the emptiness

More from the "Seeds of David": Eduardo

You miss, desperately, having someone to speak heart to heart and about things of interest. But this won't be forever. Praise Jesus for every time of aching, for in the realm of the world to come, these hungers will be satisfied all the more deeply, the deeper the loss was felt. So, you can praise in advance for the joys that will replace your sorrow. The love that will fill in the times of emptiness.

If what you need is someone to talk with, as far as comfort from me goes, then let me and my companions cheer you in this way. We can have a time of intimacy and deep communication. It will be sufficient and enough; it will fill your cup. You'll feel all topped up again.