

3-July-2021_love the brethren

(Jesus speaking:) Beloved, a soul is worth all the gold in the world. And now you know how I too feel for you. How I do weep for every lost or struggling one. Can you not love at least one fully into My Kingdom; in to the joy of his Lord? That's all I am asking. Can you touch one heart, and bring it soothing? Can you embrace one person on earth who is crying out for a bit of love? Oh dear one. Yes it costs what you have had thus far, and a bit more yet. But it will be so very worth it.

What do I want from you? A tithe of time. If you can't love your brother who is standing nearby, how can you go out to hope to reach others? It's all a sham then if you don't love them all the way in to full and renewed health, just because you fear the tears and cost that it takes for deep healing of long standing wounds. A bit of love to ease the pain is all I am asking.

Darling, can't you reach out, though it hurts? I do the same for you. I give of what is Mine to soothe your troubled soul. It's in My nature to feed, nourish and heal.

If you can't love a mate who is waiting for some compassion, will I hear your prayers very clearly for yet the next thing you wish for?

Love the brethren, oh love the brothers and sisters in Christ.