More from the "Seeds of David": Bask in the sun

It was a beautiful activity, well thought-out, to have your husband singing songs to the little one on the guitar, a time with just the three of you. It's something that can't usually happen because of the needs of the others, but it was a time to be cherished. Yes, it came at the cost of sleep loss and difficult struggles. But see, no matter what is happening or who is fighting you in the spirit, we work to make things good, to bring good from anything that is going on. A team of us, a very big team of us, are always working together to make this or that happen.

It's gotta be in unity that we all work, or things won't flow together well. But your messages received in the morning helped arm you for the battles and tests that came in the day. And then others of us worked to bring some beauty into the scene, some victories and gains in the arena's that we are sent to and created to tend to.

So, a beautiful time it was, and you'll remember that.

And remember this too, that no matter what is going on around you and what fight or struggle there is, there are oodles of us working and doing this and that to make the situation be a win for Jesus, and something that in the end you are thankful for.
