

NOV-2020_Are You Willing to Give Up Comforts?

(Jesus speaking:) I'm not playing games, and neither is the devil. He wants to take you for keeps and stop you from serving the Lord for the rest of your life. And oh how the tears will fall when you see what your life could have been and should have been, but you missed it for a bowl of pottage, like Esau, who just felt he had to have something now to satisfy his longing, and it cost him something that he regretted for the rest of his life and beyond. Don't get so blinded by your carnal and silly desires that you miss what is really worth fighting for. (Genesis 25:31-34)

I wish you'd turn some of that determination to fight for something you want, into prayers before My throne, for the needs of so many hurting and suffering fellow Christians. You and your prayers could be actually adjusting history that is now being written, and how things are playing out. But no, you want your games and your silly times.

There is real torment going on. What are you doing to alleviate the struggles of fellow believers? You think I won't hold you accountable for what you didn't do to help, through the times you could have spent in prayer, but didn't, and just wanted to play little games and get some carnal entertainment?

Did you cry today for the plight of the lost who don't yet know who I am?

Did you stay on your knees until I at last revealed to you what you most needed to know?

Did you fight to learn a new scripture, no matter how many times you had to go over it?

Sometimes you act like you are a bag of jelly when it comes time to actually fight and do something worth doing. Oh you can play fight, and jostle around, but that's just because it feels fun or right, or you are in the mood for it. But did you do something for the good of My Kingdom and your family, something that was really hard for you and you didn't particularly enjoy it?

You clamour for this and that, and are given royal treatment, more than just about any kids on Earth—and I can see them all right now. But what did you do for Me and for the spreading of the Gospel? Are you willing to give up comforts so you can bring Salvation and My Word to others?

Trying to have all your Heaven now, means a lot of catch up work to be done later on. And that will mean missing out on some really great stuff that is going to be happening in the near future, so you can catch up on lessons and hard work that could have been done now.

Please be sober, be wise. You are accountable for the truth you have been given. Don't flub this one chance you have on Earth land, to show what you are made of.
